

ANOTHER BIG CONVENTION IS COMING TO ATLANTA

Southern Supply and Machinery Dealers' Assn. to Convene in 1915

Atlanta has won another big convention—that of the Southern Supply and Machinery Dealers' association.

A telegram received Friday afternoon by Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta convention bureau, brought the information that the Houston, Texas, executive committee had voted unanimously to recommend Atlanta as the site for the association's annual convention for holding the 1916 convention.

"This is another prize," said Mr. Allen, "and it is the best thing going for us to win it. The association brings together about 1,000 delegates of various lines of business, including makers of big hardware and machinery manufacturing firms."

Aside from the economic aspect of the tolls issue, aside from the fact that it would be unjust to American taxpayers to take a million or more dollars a year from the government treasury and hand it over to a shipping monopoly, the United States cannot afford to break its faith with the world.

AdMen's Club to Attend Opening Game in a Body

Bunch of Boosters Will Have Their Own Band, and Have Charters Truck for Trip, Fans Working Automobiles Are Urged to Join Cavalcade

With their line-up all arranged, and their forces in battle array, the Ad Men's club is launching its battle to land Atlanta out in front in attendance at the opening of the Southern league baseball season locally. Already these hustlers are campaigning among the local population. They are urging all who can possibly get away to lay other matters aside and go out to see the game. But their plan offers more as well.

They will have a band of music all their own, and have already chartered a big fleet of trucks to haul the party out to the park on the day of the battle. Furthermore, every member of the club who owns a car will be expected to line up with his machine, and bring some with him. It is proposed to have a big procession of cars and every fan in the city who owns a buzz wagon is urged to join in the excursion.

Of course the trucks and cars will be liberally placarded with streamers proclaiming "Atlanta Always Ahead," and other suitable slogans for the occasion. In addition to these, another stunt is being planned that will surely make a hit with the multitude. The club has made arrangements to obtain from Harry L. Kleinschmidt & Co. a beautiful supply of "Fly Fly, the Official Candy Ball." For the benefit of those who may not know what this is, it may be announced that the enterprising firm has gotten up a variety in the confection line, which is called "Fly Fly." It is a composition of solid popcorn, peanuts and cocoanuts, highly nutty put up in a box resembling a striking device, one of Salsburg's.

The club will have an abundant supply of these all along the route. It is to be thrown to the spectators. Overboard, mid-air, who will and who will not be employed by the boys is the charge of this cargo in passing these nuts to the crowd. Furthermore, the club claims to have perfect confection, peanuts and cocoanuts, highly nutty put up in a box resembling a striking device, one of Salsburg's.

Pels Will Drop John Cochran

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—John Cochran, Appalachian league circuit, who has been the next man in the line to draw a pink slip from Johnny Roanoke, is responsible for his own undoing. The shift of the Carolina league to Monday indicates Cochran's removal to some class B club, under an official agreement.

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

PHILOSOPHY DE LUXE.

(I took a chance and put all I had into one good punch.—Al McCoy, conqueror of George Chip.)

When they've got you crowded up against the wall. And the clip's too speedy for a guy to stall. When they're coming fast with a steady sweep And the old Angola is about to leap—

The Answer's simple and to the point: There's one way out of the Trouble Joint—Dig your toes in deep as you play the bunch And put all you've got into one good punch.

Considerable meteor, Mr. Chip. Offered up as a sacrifice to the demon Mr. Klaus, he skidded from obscurity by knocking Klaus out within six rounds. Chip jumped from the cellar to the attic in a thirty-minute leap. Shortly afterward Mr. McCoy, of Brooklyn, is offered as a sacrifice to Chip and the same upset follows. Well, one comes, easy soft as Marc Antony remarked when they chased him out of Cleopatra's bungalow.

THE MCCOY STATUS.

In regard to McCoy's titular status in the way of ring ranking—he is now champion if Chip was champion. Chip was champion if Klaus was champion. And Klaus was champion if—If the last guy he beat had won the title from the man before him.

At any rate McCoy is now as close to the top as any one else, if not more so; and this is quite an advance over his previous condition of servitude.

WE WONDER.

They say that nature in time, if a man is a spendthrift or prodigal with his time, his money or his health, the supply soon runs low. Each system contains only so much of any one thing. Four seasons ago the systems of the Mackmen were fairly bulging with base hits. They exuded hits at every opportunity. In place of saving up these precious wallops for a reserve occasion, they proceeded to blow them right and left. It is the supply now running low? The last wallop was missing in the Philly series. The batting there was light. And opening against the Dodgers where Chance's team had hammered lustily, the Mackmen poked but two flabby blows in their first contest. Have they been too wasteful in past years, burning their bats at both ends? Or have they killed the goose that laid the golden home run? Maybe.

We have a faint, submerged hunch that the so-called "livelier batting Irish" will return again, if not a trifle sooner.

If the Athletics were blind in a bunch tomorrow most of them would still be over 300 for the next two years through the empuis imparted by Doc Force-of-Habit.

When McGraw heard that a couple of Dodger pitchers had held the Mackmen to two hits he immediately dispatched swift envoys northward to obtain the priceless ingredient used. The Giant leader has a hunch that it would come in handy around some early October afternoon.

OUTMET UNDER WAY.

Our young Mr. Outmet is under way at top speed in England, and is apparently well upon his game. It's lucky for America that she has too good golfing temperaments abroad, for both Outmet and Travers are the types that rise to the occasion and do better work under pressure.

Travers told us shortly before he sailed that in his opinion Outmet had the finest golfing temperament he had ever known. "He takes the game as it comes," remarked Jerry, "and plugs along without any extra thrills. An important match is no more of an occasion to him than a college college. He lacks the lack of experience, even the lack of experience won't hurt him as much as it would most others who lack his poise and steady state of mind."

Outmet in this respect is a good bit like Frank Baker. A world series battle to Baker is only a ball game—and playing ball is mainly his business.

A championship golf match to Outmet is only a golf match, and a golf match is what he wants to play. Outmet's case and Baker's case, if the rest of the country desires to get worked up and excited about it, that's the rest of the country's business—not theirs. They have had enough important matters at stake—such as plugging along and taking a freethanded wallop at the pill.

In the meanwhile we wonder if the Hon. C. Evans has disposed of those bonds? Art is long and time is fleeting—and the gray mist is lifting on the Sandwich mists.

HOW IT WORKS OUT.

One writer announces that if the Oxford relay team wins at Philadelphia it won't be an English victory, as one member of the team is a South African, another an Australian and still another an American.

This theory takes the championship in baseball away from America. On Connie Mack's club there is an Indian, Schang is a Dutchman, McGinnis is an Irishman, and so are Barry and Murphy.

If Oxford wins, which so far she hasn't, it will be an Oxford university victory, or as we understand it, Oxford is largely located in England or evictions.

BOTH SIDES FIND CAUSE TO REJOICE OVER KILLIFER SUIT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 11.—Whether further proceedings would be instituted against William Killifer, whom the federal court in Chicago, Ill., Mich., today refused to enjoin from playing with any baseball team other than the Chicago Federals, Edward E. Bates, general counsel for the Federal league, could not say because he had not had opportunity to consult his association.

"From reports I have received," Mr. Bates said last night, "Judge Seaton holds that the reserve clause of the 1914 contract of the Philadelphia club is absolutely unenforceable and that the contract is void for lack of mutuality on account of the ten-day clause."

"He further held that the Killifer contract with the Chicago Federal club was valid, for which Killifer could be made to respond in damages, but that we were not entitled to a temporary injunction upon the grounds that we had knowledge of a moral obligation between Killifer and the Philadelphia club. This is the only point upon which the court did not sustain us. We maintained that the complaint could not be said to have come into a court of equity with unclear hands merely because it had knowledge of a moral obligation existing not between the Chicago club and Killifer but between Killifer and the Philadelphia club, but the court held otherwise on this point. In that particular it may be said to be a close question, upon which even courts might differ."

"I regard this as a victory for the Federal league in that it sustains our contention as to the reserve clause and that the 1914 contract of organized baseball is not enforceable because of lack of mutuality on account of the ten-day release clause."

The Killifer contract of 1914 with Philadelphia had the ten-day clause stricken out in the case at Grand Rapids, so that while of course the regular 1914 form of contract of organized baseball was not involved in the Killifer case, nevertheless the opinion of the court would cover any contract containing a ten-day clause. The ten-day clause contained in the regular form of Federal league contract for 1914 were stricken out in all cases where players of known and recognized ability were signed.

"As to what further proceedings will be taken in this case or other cases, I am not prepared to state, as I have had no opportunity to consult my associates."

Johnson Pleased With Outcome

DAYTON, Ohio, April 11.—R. B. Johnson, president of the American league, in Dayton last night, said in regard to the outcome of the Killifer case: "The outcome of the controversy is pleasing and should meet with the approval of organized ball in general. The decision of the court was based on a contract which since has been revised as far as the reserve clause is concerned, to such an extent as to bear no resemblance to the document signed by Killifer at least a year ago."

Roanoke Team Defeats College Nine

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 11.—The Roanoke (Virginia league) team won here Friday from Hampden-Sydney college, 14 to 2. The collegeans, however, put up a much better game than the score would indicate, errors allowing several runs for the leagueans.

Morgan, who was released at Lynchburg yesterday by Pittsburgh Federals, signed a Roanoke contract today to play shortstop.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Roanoke 14 2 0. Hampden-Sydney 2 0 0. Batters: Smith, Robertson, Steen and O'Neill.
